How many offices can boast a 15-foot spinning Jumbotron, an entire room devoted to playing golf, a bat pole for riding between floors, a hidden kitchen for creative break times? We can think of at least one! From football fields to double-decker buses, these are the offices we'd love to work in — for at least one day.

Recruiting.com & Jobing.com

Recruiting.com and Jobing.com

Location:

1375 N. Scottsdale Rd., Ste. 300,
Scottsdale, Ariz.

Architecture/Design Firm:

hayes/architecture interiors inc.

About:

Jobing.com is an employment website focusing on local recruiting in 18 U.S. cities. Recruiting.com offers companies software and technology that helps in the hiring process.

THE HIGHLIGHTS:

This office space was a consolidation of Jobing.com and Recruiting.com's headquarters with the end goal of a functional, motivating work environment. Want to have a meeting from a ceiling-suspended collaborative workspace? Park it in one of the two floating benches known as "huddles," where you can host clients, video conferences or collaborative sessions. From the interesting wallpaper to the entertaining lighting and the collection of PEZ machines, Jobing.com's space was designed to be as varied and diverse as its employees. From environments that cater to working out, napping, collaborating or working independently, there's a spot for every kind of work style.

About Amanda Ventura

Amanda Ventura is an editor, award-winning writer and pop culture enthusiast. When she's not up against deadlines, she is exploring Arizona, trying recipes that require every dish in her kitchen be used, collecting 5K swag bags and race numbers and volunteering at a local animal shelter. Her bookshelf is full of autobiographies and her desk is covered in Sticky Notes. She dislikes the Oxford comma and still cannot believe she gets to meet and write about interesting people for a living.
